An Index to articles and reviews in

_English Usage in Southern Africa_
(Vols. 5 to 7).

_A Book for all Seasons._ (R) John Tucker, 7 (i), pp. 29–31.
_A New Certificate of Proficiency English Course._ (R) Helen Glen, 5 (i), p. 30.
_A Short Introduction to English Usage._ (R) A.D. Adey, 5(i), pp. 32–35.
_A tentative suggestion on the possible origin of the three-dots technique._ A.G. Ullyatt, 6 (i), pp. 38–40.
_An Editor and the Index of English Usage._ Mey Hurter, 5(i), pp. 13–16.
_Beyond the Dictionary in English._ (R) R. Ponelis, 6 (ii), pp. 34–36.
_Comments on Report Writing._ A.K. Scholes, 7 (i), pp. 43–45.
_Departures from Traditional Syntax._ A.A.G. Anderton, 5 (ii), pp. 1–12.
_English for South African Scientists._ Kathleen M. Abbott, (Part I), 7 (i) pp. 1–28; (Part II), 7 (ii), pp. 1–16.
_Language contact and interference in South Africa._ L. Chandler, 6 (ii), pp. 13–19.
_New Movements in the Study and Teaching of English._ (R) Carol Margolis, 5 (i), p. 29.
_Parletor or Parliot?._ Ida Mal, 7 (ii), pp. 29–30.
_Roofies and Oumanne._ (‘Forces’ English), J.H. Picard, 6 (i), pp. 35–37.
_South African Goal Argot._ 5(i), pp. 1–12.
Talking about English, (R) Mey Hurter, 6 (ii), pp. 31–33.
Telling it as it should be told, 'Purist', 6 (i), pp. 20–24.
The Origins and Development of the English Language, (R) E.H. Hubbard, 6 (ii), pp. 28–30.
This is called gobbling the gook, Fleur de Villiers, 7 (i), pp. 40–42.
Unintentional Errors in Syntax, A.A.G. Anderton, 6 (i), pp. 1–19.
Vogue Words, D.R. Beeton (Part I), 6 (ii), pp. 20–21; (Part II), 7 (ii), pp. 21–23.

Readers are reminded that Vols. 1–4 contain word lists, classifications and definitions. These volumes have been brought together in A Dictionary of English Usage in Southern Africa, edited by D.R. Beeton and Helen Dorner, and published by Oxford University Press, Cape Town (1975).

A.D.A.